Hello & Welcome

Can you believe we're diving headfirst into the New Year? As we bid farewell to the old and welcome in the new, it's not just a change in dates but a chance for fresh starts, exciting possibilities, lots of adventures and renewed hope.

Reflecting back on the past rollercoaster of a year, each hurdle and setback we made it through, have grown stronger, through collective support and determination, and it's at those times when the community strength really shines.

As we head into the new year, we can set intentions, however small, both as individuals and as a community and these shared goals will definitely help us all build a brighter future. Over the coming months, we have so many ways we can all get involved; keep reading the magazines for ideas, from local gatherings, volunteering initiatives, supporting our local businesses, all to ensure that our community thrives.

Change can be a frightening idea, it's like having a totally new hairstyle! It seems really odd at first, a bit of a shock when you glance in a mirror, but it's also totally refreshing! With change comes new possibilities for growth helping us to move forward to explore and enrich all our lives.

So raise a glass and let's give 2024 a big welcome! Here's to new beginnings, and a year ahead filled with promise and opportunities for us all.

Cheers to a remarkable 2024!

The Archaeology of Wouldham (Part 4 – The Neolithic Landscape)

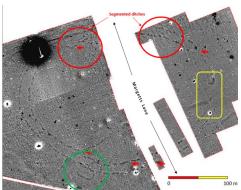

Happy New Year Wouldham. For this edition of the WPC magazine, we venture to the Neolithic period, and we are certainly not short of these prehistoric sites within our surrounding landscape. Moving away from the hunter-gatherer Mesolithic period described in the last article, the Neolithic period is largely represented by the adoption of a sedentary lifestyle based on agriculture and animal husbandry and is illustrated by the recorded presence of both ceremonial and domestic sites. Archaeological artefacts tend to comprise polished flint axes, tools, and early pottery, while structures, such as a significant long house recorded during the construction of the CTRL (Channel Tunnel Rail Link) adjacent to Bluebell Hill (White Horse) provide a more domestic focus. Added to that the presence of megalithic monuments such as Kit's Coty and The Countless Stones (if you count them correctly then the devil will appear, apparently) are believed to represent a complex ritual landscape based around prehistoric religion, ceremony, and belief. Yes, we have now gone into Time Team territory and have mentioned the R-word (ritual).

The reason that so much emphasis is placed on ritual and ceremony on television shows is because it represents an essential aspect of humanity; 'belief' and provides a small window into what our ancestors may have been thinking. It is very important to note, that as archaeologists we can say 'when', we can say 'where', we can even say 'how' but we cannot say 'why'. The Neolithic period is really the earliest period in prehistory when we can start applying evidence to support theories of social complexity that may give an insight into 'why?' and that is because when present, the Neolithic period is very visible in the archaeological record. Settled life in one place over many generations undoubtedly leaves a scar on the landscape and when we investigate a site, we find the remains of rubbish pits and ditches, of post holes and hearths, and of burial, which, by association, provides hints on religious belief.

There are at least 59 recorded Neolithic sites recorded within a 5km radius of the centre of Wouldham (which I have taken as the Medway Inn), far more than what we have seen in any other period up to now. The Neolithic period will therefore provide the focus of our journey for a few more editions of the magazine. We will explore elements of Neolithic life and death around Wouldham, and include domestic sites (houses), working life (agriculture and farming) and ritual life (burials and monuments), all recorded during archaeological excavations and investigations on our doorsteps.

But for now, I leave you with a little teaser, actually, it is quite a big teaser. The term 'Neolithic Causewayed Enclosure' sounds like a bit of a mouthful, but when broken down it is quite clear; an enclosed area (normally oval in plan) that has causeways (or paths between ditches), that dates to the Neolithic period and we have one of the best and biggest ones in the country. Located either side of Margetts Lane. This large site consists of a series of double ditches at least 2m wide, forming an oval pattern enclosing an area measuring 250m in length and 170m in width. A geophysical survey (see plan below), which is non-intrusive and measures the magnetic properties of the soil) was carried out by the Museum of London in 2009 and shows the segmented ditches forming causeways (red arrows) with a probable entrance on the eastern side (yellow box).

What were these sites for? Well, the answer to that is that we are not entirely sure (face -slap). This is primarily because these sites are protected by law (Scheduled Ancient Monuments) and so are rarely excavated. What we do understand though is that they are normally large, they are known to contain post holes (structures?), burnt pits (offerings or industry?) and large butchered bones deposits (feasting?). This leads us to associate them with an element of community, a gathering place where groups would meet to trade, to feast, to celebrate, maybe a place to worship? They were a focal point of life during a time when our ancestors were starting to clear land for the growing of crops, to build houses and small settlements to keep their families safe and to carry out ceremonial and ritual events most likely associated with their faith.

Next time: Neolithic period (domestic bliss) David Britchfield BA(Hons) MCIfA. Ravelin Archaeological Services

CAN YOU HELP ALL SAINTS CHURCH?

Not many people know that your local church is paid for entirely by the congregation. There is no magic pot of money supplied by the Church of England. For over a thousand years this has worked for our church. However, things are getting tough for the church as they are for everyone and now, we need the help of the village.

We are asking can you afford a donation or a very small standing order for the church to use entirely for its upkeep. We have a detailed inspection every 5 years, 15 years ago we got new floors and had the church repainted. But there are constant repairs required due to the age of the building.

Obviously, we all want this little church to keep going for another thousand years, worst case scenario is that we can no longer afford to keep it running and it will have to close.

If you would like to help the bank details are:

Parish of Burham and Wouldham 08-92-99 65362961

If you use the reference UPKEEP then this money will be entirely used for maintaining the fabric of the church.

Parish Council Tax Bill

At an Extraordinary General Meeting of the Parish Council in January, it was agreed to reduce the Parish tax bill for 2024-2025 by further 10%. In pounds this is only a small amount, but it is a decrease.

For information, the period 2020-2021, the Wouldham Parish Tax Bill was £54.47 (Band B). Over the next 3 years the bill decreased by £5.25 (approx. 10%). Over this same period your overall tax bill has increased by £184 (approx. 12.5%) When it arrives on your doormat, please read the breakdown on your tax bill and realise where your taxes go. You will be very surprised at some lines and, I hope, reconciled to others.

If the Parish Council had followed the upward trend or other organisations, the Parish bill would have been £61.28 instead of around £44.30 (Band B)

Roads/Footpaths/Grounds Maintenance

As a reminder, potholes etc can be reported directly to KCC through their website: https://www.kent.gov.uk/roads-and-travel/what-we-lookafter/roads/ potholes

Water leaks can also be reported to: www.southeastwater.co.uk

Road Salting in Freezing Temperatures

Please be aware that KCC only salt the primary routes through the parish, i.e. School Lane, High Street, Knowle Road, Hall Road, Village Road, Worral Drive and Keepers Cottage Lane. No side roads are salted, please take care, drive to the conditions and make sure your vehicle is winter ready.

Defibrillators

We currently have 2 defibrillators in the village. They are located at both ends of the village: The Village Hall, 15 High Street and The Community Centre, Tolhurst Close, Peters Village. We are also hoping to have an additional one installed at The Watermans Arms soon.

Public Open Spaces

There have been a few reports of 'uncontrolled/aggressive' dogs in the area. ALL DOGS MUST be kept under control and not cause stress to other dogs or members of the public.

It is an offence under the Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 for a dog to be dangerously out of control and to put a person in fear of being attacked. The main points of the Act are:

- a magistrate can issue a control order which could result in the dog being destroyed. The owner can also be fined or receive a prison sentence of up to six months or both.
- if your dog bites a person the sentence is increased to a fine or a prison sentence up to two years or both.
- if your dog attacks and injures another animal you could be sued in a county court for the damages caused.

You must therefore inform the dog warden who will investigate and take the appropriate action. Tele: 01732 876181 Email: dog.warden@tmbc.gov.uk For more serious attacks, please report to the Police via the 101 service.

Lifebuoys

As we all live near a very fast-moving river, it is vital that all our lifebuoys are always fit for purpose. They are checked monthly by Councillors and should only be opened in case of emergency. What if it was your son/daughter, mother/ father that needed saving and there was no life equipment available?

School Crossing Patrol Officer

The Parish Council are pleased to support All Saints School to provide a new Lollypop person to assist children crossing Worral Drive to get to school. Full job details will be coming out shortly. But if you are interested, please keep an eye on Facebook or the notice boards.

The Parish Council have been awarded funding from TMBC/S106 to appoint a new member of staff to lead new youth clubs and support community activities in the Parish.

February/March in Your Garden

'Every gardener knows that under the cloak of winter lies a miracle.'

Happy New Gardening Year. Whilst its still very early in the season, there is plenty of prep work that can be done now in order to get ahead for Spring. Our climate is getting milder and wetter, which means that the garden has a less restful winter than years gone by. Perennial plants that have died off for winter will still be dormant, but by now early signs of spring flowers will be showing, so if you have planted bulbs in pots now is the time to move them into a prominent position where they can be seen. Whilst the weather remains mild, it is the ideal opportunity to spread a layer of compost on the borders, this will help to improve the soil structure and also add vital nutrients back into the soil. With peat based compost being phased out this year, embracing the change over to peat-free growing is ever important, and as gardeners it is vital that we help in the challenge to reduce the impact of peat excavation by supporting peat-free growing. Many of the commercially available peat free composts are now using different bases for the product so it might take a bit of trial and error to find the one that suits your needs best – and as with compost based products there will be different types available for seed sowing, potting on and for tubs and baskets. In addition, making your own compost at home is easy, and helps to reduce the amount of waste sent to landfill or to recycling centres. Even with a modest sized garden, using a plastic compost bin (tuck it behind the shed or a tree if you want it out of view) can help reduce your plant trimmings, veg peelings and paper shredding's to a lovely mulch for use around the garden. The new year brings with it new hope for the growing season ahead. By February things like tomatoes and chillies can be sown into seed trays & amp; kept on a warm windowsill – bear in mind that one seed will produce one plant that will each produce many fruit, so only sow as many seeds as for the plants you require, plus a few spares (Just in case!!). Prepare you seed tray by filling with peat free compost, levelling it off (give it a few taps on a hard surface), and then lightly compressing the surface. It's worth adding some vermiculite to your compost mix when using for seed sowing as this helps drainage and plant health. Sow seeds individually, & amp; then cover with a light layer of compost. Place the tray into a tray of water until the surface looks moist, then move it to your warm windowsill.

By later in the month, the same process can be used for sowing annual flower seeds such as Nasturtium, Lobelia and Marigolds, & amp; also long season veg such as Cabbage, Brussel Sprouts and Cauliflower. By starting these early and sowing successionally it will mean that you will have a continual supply of veg to harvest rather than lots all at the same time – its good practice to get into the art of successional sowing for this reason. Later in the season these can be sown direct into the ground, but if space allows getting some started early indoors will be beneficial.

In the garden its time now to clear away any dead stems or faded blooms from last years shrubs and perennials and tidy them back ready for them to burst into fresh growth this year. Choose a fine dry day for the task, & amp; add the clippings to the compost heap. If the compost needs emptying of last years remains then now is also an excellent time to do this before it gets filled up again with the fresh waste – it can be spread over your borders paying particular attention to mulching around trees and Roses. By the end of the month cut back summer-flowering Clematis to the second set of buds on each stem, and also cut back Cornus and Sambucus to approx. 30cm – this will encourage new growth from the base of the plant and prevent it getting leggy.

Other things to be doing in the garden now:

- Make sure to fill up bird feeders and baths in time for the Big Garden Birdwatch which this year is from 26-28 th Jan. You can find a bird-watching guide on the RSPB website. And remember to defrost bird baths if freezing temps persist – fresh water is vital.
- Finish pruning Rose bushes now removing any old stems back to the ground and then cutting back branches to an outward facing bud. Aim for an open 'goblet' shape.
- * On the veg plot Broad Beans can be sown direct, and Onion Sets can also be started off.
- Finish any hedge pruning by early Feb as by now birds will be looking for nesting sites, and it is now suggested that hedges do not get pruned again until late summer to allow our native birds to nest successfully and without disturbance.
- Put up nest boxes, ideally facing north or east, & amp; in a protected spot between shrubs and away from access for predators. Different birds have different requirements, so check this out before starting.
